

Walking in the Woods with Robert Frost: Seeing nature through the words of America's most-loved poet

presented by Jeffrey Zygmunt

A New Hampshire Humanities
Event hosted by the Plymouth Historical Society &
Pease Public Library

Robert Frost's poetry offers an intimate look at nature. In this program, author and poet Jeffrey Zygmunt recites a selection of Frost's nature poems, including some of his best-known works.

Two were inspired by his time in Plymouth. Alongside each recitation, he provides background on Frost's life, offering insight into the poem's origins, and its significance. Participants will join in a lively discussion and celebration of Frost's work that will deepen their appreciation for both the poet and New Hampshire's natural environment.

Wednesday, November 15th at 5:30PM, Old Daniel Webster Courthouse

Free and open to the public!

New Hampshire Humanities programs are made possible in part by a grant from the National Endowment

for the Humanities.

